ENERGY CONSERVATION MESSAGE

James Hull, Gallaudet's Energy Conservation Coordinator, has asked that I devote a small space in OTG, periodically, for energy conservation messages...

*****How much energy is there in a barrel of oil? How much work will it do??????

It's enough to heat the average American home to 63° through 4 and 1/2 days of freezing weather. The energy contained in 10 barrels of oil is enough to move the family sedan from New York to Los Angeles and back. 100 barrels of oil will take a loaded jetliner from Washington, D.C. to Chicago. 1,000 barrels will run the city of Baltimore for 10 minutes. One million barrels of oil will supply all the energy requirements of the state of California for about 8 hours.*****

(As always, comments are invited on the topic of Energy Conservation.)
